The Splendid Sinner
Over the Top

THE production of "A King in Khaki," Harold Lockwood's new Metro starring vehicle, has been started under the direction of Fred J. Balshofer at Monterey, California.

Harry Kitchell Webster wrote "A King in Khaki" in novel form and Fred J. Balshofer made the adaptation of the story for the screen. It is a comedy drama of a battle between the king in khaki and a group of Wall Street financiers. The king in khaki is a former New York newspaper reporter named Smith, who gains his picturesque title because of his achievements and his habitual dress of khaki. Smith is engaged in developing the resources of an island in the semi-tropics for a syndicate of promoters, but the syndicate wishes to keep the true facts of Smith's accomplishments from the stockholders and by means of false reports, to cause a decline in the value of the stock and thus ultimately freeze out the small stockholders. Smith wins not only the fight on behalf of the small stockholders, but also the battle for the hand of Beaumont's daughter as well.

Hipp Dark Last Night.

Because the baggage and scenery of the company booked for the Hippodrome this week, got tangled in the M. V. T. wreck yesterday at White Rock the opening performance was postponed until today. Don Nichols and his "Nephews and Nieces of Uncle Sam" will present as the opener a good laugh comedy called "By the Sea Waves." In it are featured Miss Thelma Goodwin, Jack Quinn and Ed Trout. Of the three featured players Mr. Quinn is the best known here, he having appeared here in several one-night shows and also in a number of tabloid productions.

Empey's Film Gets a Good Start.

"Over the Top," with Sergeant Arthur Empey, started on a week's run at the Dixie yesterday and was attended by large crowds at each showing. Empey is supported by a splendid Vitagraph cast which includes Lois Meredith, James Morrison, Arthur Donaldson, Julie Swayne Gordon, Mary Maurice, Betty Blythe, Nellie Anderson, William Calhoun and William H. Bruckey.

The piece has a strong appeal to patriotism. The trench scenes and the tragedy of "No Man's Land" are among the outstanding features.

"The Splendid Sinner" Again Today.

In hitching their wagon to an operatic star, Goldwyn has achieved a success of no uncertain sort. For Mary Garden, in her second appearance on the screen, has given a performance that is both sincere and eloquent. The appeal and force of the great singer's personality is even more keenly felt here than it was in the picturization of "Thale." Her role in "The Splendid Sinner," at the Princess, is picturesque. She is a fascinating and alluring sinner and Miss Garden has also made her a human and lovable sinner.

Pictorially Artistic Production.

There is so much that is new and delightful—so much that is a joy to behold in the selection of rarely beautiful scenes, that "I Love You," at the Grand, stands as one of the most pictorially artistic productions of recent date. The plot, too, is of an unusually good quality and will carry a varied appeal. To us, the charming nature of the story was somewhat lost when the producers felt the necessity of adding a "punch" to the picture and it was with regret that we saw the heretofore simple and convincing tale thus used. But then, there are doubtless picture audiences that would much prefer the present state of the feature—so there you are. At any rate, Triangle deserves great praise for the thoroughly fine and beautiful production.

The first few reels disclosed garden and rural scenes of enchanting beauty. The story was laid in Italy and the director caught the spirit of the country and presented its people in natural surroundings and some splendid types were selected to portray the leading roles. Whole Italian villages were constructed and Venice was shown in all its beauty.

Wallace Reid Star at Nelson

"The Thing We Love," at the Nelson today, the latest Wallace Reid picture produced by Paramount, is one of the most recent things that brilliant young star has ever done. It deals with patriotism in its highest form and the story is as follows:
Rodney Sheridan (Wallace Reid) is married to Margaret Kenwood, daughter of the President of the Kenwood Manufacturing Company, of which Rodney is Vice-President himself. Both Rodney and Margaret are strongly anti-war when the action of the story commences, which is at about the outbreak of the European war.

When Margaret's father pledges his plant to the manufacture of munitions, Rodney refuses to assist and resigns his position. He also starts a violent campaign against the procedure and against all war in general. Margaret's father, enraged, plans to frame a charge of subversion against Rodney, which he carries out.

Rodney is sent to the penitentiary and his life practically ruined although he has one staunch friend through it all—Margaret, although he does not always realize it.

How he is drawn into a terrible plot of the German agents to wreck a whole munition plant and how he narrowly escapes committing the atrocity and is rescued just in time by one wholly fine and loyal American citizen of German parentage who has been standing firm by the land of his adoption, makes up a tale that will touch intimately every single human being in all this great land.

"CLOSE-UP"

—Jack Quinn, who is with the company starting at the Hippodrome today, has not been here for more than a year, although in his theatrical career he has appeared in Fairmont just exactly ten times by actual count.

—An educated monkey, dressed as Charlie Chaplin, and borrowing some of that noted comedian's "business," is seen in "The House of Gold," a Metro production in which beautiful Emmy Wehlen is starred.

—Lawrence Grant, who plays the part of the Kaiser in the Screen Classics, Inc. production, "To Hell With the Kaiser," walked down Broadway in his make-up as the German ruler. He soon found out that the part he played was not at all popular with the New York public.

—Miss Virginia Abbott, the Hipp ticket "salesman" was about the theatre yesterday showing unmistakable signs of the injury she sustained in a recent automobile accident.

At THE NELSON Today

"THE THING WE LOVE"

A patriotic picture that lacks all the horrible details of war and bloodshed, and shows how we unconsciously kill the thing we love.—OUR COUNTRY—through the viewpoint of a faulty perspective. The story deals with the present war, before our entry into it, and deals with German plotting to wreck manufacturers of war munitions for the allies. Wallace Reid and Kathryn Williams are Co-Pacifists and sweet hearts, and are staged in the leading parts of an intensely gripping photodrama. The scenes are realistic, one of the big munition plants in Connecticut being secured after much difficulty. The incidents of the German agents and plot to corner all bids for munitions for the allies and the delay in shipment was taken from an actual occurrence.

HEALTH HINTS

Erysipelas is an inflammation of the skin that is sometimes called "St. Anthony's Fire."

It usually begins with a chill, followed by a high fever. It is a complication of wounds but is more frequently developed without any apparent injury.

A large majority of cases begin on the face, usually on the nose, first as a small red spot, which is soon elevated above the surrounding skin, and gradually or rapidly spreads over the face and ears, and not infrequently over the entire hairy scalp. Sometimes it even spreads over the neck and chest and occasionally to other parts of the body.

The patient's skin is red, hot, painful and swollen and blisters frequently form. The swelling may be most marked about the eyes and ears, the eyes closed and the patient's features changed and distorted to such a degree that the appearance once seen will not soon be forgotten.

We all prefer Bluefain PURE WHITE

The disease, if limited to a few days or a week, but sometimes before the face is healed red spots appear on other parts of the body and the case may be prolonged.

Erysipelas is only slightly contagious under ordinary circumstances, but persons suffering from wounds or be attacked. Wounds should be carefully dressed with antiseptic solution to prevent the development of the disease.

The Misses Hazel and Helen Hines left Saturday for a trip to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.
